Miscellaneous:

A dive bomber is a bomber aircraft that dives directly at its targets in order to provide greater accuracy for the bomb it drops / Diving towards the target simplifies the bomb's trajectory, which improves the accuracy of the drop. A dive bomber dives at a steep angle, normally between 45 and 70 degrees, and thus requires an abrupt pull-up after dropping its bombs. This puts great strains on both pilot and aircraft. It demands an aircraft of strong construction, with some means to slow its dive / The rapid vertical motion of the aircraft also aids in avoiding fire from anti-aircraft artillery, although diving to low altitude offsets this advantage as it brings the aircraft into range of smaller weapons.
